

Welcome to fDi Markets Library Edition

Please take the time read through, review & confirm the Terms & Conditions for usage of fDi Markets before using the system.

I confirm that I am an authorised user of a client organisation who has entered into a subscription agreement with fDi Intelligence (a trading name of The Financial Times Limited) ("fDi") for access to the fDi Markets Library database (the "Database").

I agree that I shall only use the Database:

- for personal and internal research and awareness purposes; and
- in accordance with the requirements and restrictions set out below.

I shall only:

- print one or more hard copies of my search results and agree that such copies may not be sold or distributed externally outside of the client organisation;
- download my search results provided that I do not perform more than ten project or company downloads per log in session nor perform more than 20 project or company downloads per week;
- on a non-systematic and infrequent basis, include extracts (any data or information from the Database) or abstracts (a non-verbatim summary of an extract) in works I produce for internal or external redistribution provided that such extract or abstract shall constitute no more than 20% of the entire contents of such works and shall not form the main subject of such works;
- make reference to the Database as a source when making statements to the press; and
- use the Database for other purposes only with fDi's prior written approval.

I shall at all times:

- use all reasonable care and skill in the creation of any extracts or abstracts;
- ensure persons to whom extracts or abstracts are made available, are made aware that they must not be copied, redistributed or modified in anyway and the following wording shall appear immediately below each publication or reproduction:
- of an extract "Source: fDi Markets Library, a service from The Financial Times Limited 2016. All Rights Reserved.";
- of an abstract "this summary was produced by (...) using data provided by fDi Markets Library."

I shall not:

- except as permitted in the terms above, copy, adapt, alter, abridge, modify, translate, archive, syndicate, sell, license, grant or purport to grant any rights in or otherwise make available any database or extracts;
- use any content from the Database within any internal or external database or website or in a manner prejudicial to the reputation or interests of the FT or otherwise render it defamatory, inaccurate or illegal;
- not state or imply at any time that the FT promotes or endorses any specific regional investment, third party products or services (except to the extent that FT does expressly endorse any specific regional investment, third party products or services);
- distort or misrepresent the substance of the Database or any part thereof; or
- remove, shrink or otherwise modify the copyright or any other proprietary notice or any branding or logo of fDi (or its licensors) contained in the Database;
- share any "Password", "ID" or similar code (if applicable) that you are provided with to facilitate access to our services.

I understand that:

- Access to the Database is restricted to a maximum number of users (as per agreed in the license agreement) from the client organisation simultaneously at any one time, additional users will be placed in a queuing system until access becomes available;
- In the event fDi has grounds to suspect that a user has committed some unauthorised use of the Database, or that a user has supplied inaccurate information on registration, fDi reserves the right to deny access to the Database to the relevant user.
- fDi accepts no responsibility for the completeness, accuracy or otherwise of the content of the Database. The information available through the Database does not constitute any form of advice, recommendation, representation or endorsement and is not intended to be relied on in making (or refraining from making) any specific investment or other decisions. Appropriate independent advice should be obtained before making any such decision. Any information received through the Database may have ceased to be current at the time it is received.